Biography of Presenter

Narin Sok is the Programme Manager in charge of the anti-corruption initiatives of UNDP in Cambodia. He works closely with donors, government officials, media and civil society organizations, providing them with high quality policy advice for the development of a draft law on anti-corruption in compliance with international best practices. In addition, he manages UNDP's support to enhance capacity of the Cambodian parliament.

Narin has also had extensive experiences working with USAID in Cambodia in promoting democratic governance through civil society and media organizations. While working with USAID, he received multiples awards from various American Ambassadors for his leadership, team work and his exception performance in crucial circumstances.

Narin was a Fulbright Scholar and earned his Master's Degree in Government Administration from the University of Pennsylvania.
