Biography of Presenter

Joseph Gangloff serves as Deputy Director of the United States Office of Government Ethics, the agency responsible for administering the ethics program for the executive branch. For almost thirty years, Mr. Gangloff's responsibilities in the United States government have focused on the development, implementation, and analysis of programs involving public corruption, conflicts of interest, and good governance. Notably, in former senior-level positions at the United States Department of Justice, Mr. Gangloff served as a criminal prosecutor with responsibility for headquarters oversight of high profile public corruption investigations and also represented the United States in the negotiation of multilateral anti-corruption instruments throughout the world, including negotiation of the United Nations Convention Against Corruption.
